American Flag Lowered At Coblenz With Ceremony

PARIS AROUSED

Still More Drastic Steps To Follow; Magnates Fined

(BY UNITED PRESS)

Coblenz, Jan. 24.—The American flag was lowered ceremoniously today when the American troops, which were recalled from the Rhine area recently when France carried out further occupation of German territory, departed for home.

(BY UNITED PRESS)

Paris, Jan. 24.—The French are planning to occupy the Ruhr for a period of not less than two years and to put the railroads and communication services under military control next, with more drastic steps to follow, if German resistance continues.

(French Wireless)

Paris, Jan. 24.—The 8th American Infantry left Coblenz today to embark at Antwerp. General Degoutte sent a farewell message to General Allen.

Coblenz, Jan. 25.—At a luncheon given by him in honor of the Allied Commissioners after the ceremony of lowering the American flag, General Allen said that the spectacle just witnessed was ungrandiose and not imposing but had a most significant connection with the affairs of the old and new worlds. He declared that they were witnesses of an unusually significant phase in history.

Interviewed, General Allen said that concordance between the British and American Governments with respect to certain policies and measures being carried out in Europe was indicative of what was fundamental in the hearts of the two nations.

The American forces, numbering 1,000 men, will be replaced by 5,000 French troops.

Mayence, Jan. 24.—The court-martial has sentenced the six German industrialists to pay the following fines: Herr Fritz Thyssen, 5,100 francs; Herr Kesten, 15,632 francs; Herr Wuestenhoefer, 8,640 francs; Herr Tengelmann, 6,020 francs; Herr Spindler, 47,752 francs; Herr Oloff 224,300 francs.

The majority of the judges admitted that there were extenuating circumstances in favor of the accused.

Herr Grimm, the counsel for the defence, pleaded that force majeure excluded all responsibility and appealed to clauses of the Hague Convention relative to the treatment of inhabitants of occupied territory. He declared that their consciences compelled the accused men so to act.

A German, who was in the corridors of the law courts, shouted: "Hoch! Deutschland!" and was immediately arrested.

Herr Thyssen admitted that he had disobeyed the orders of the occupation authorities with regard to coal deliveries, saying that it was his duty to obey his country's orders and that the entry of troops into the Ruhr was not legally justified.

The other accused associated themselves with Herr Thyssen's standpoint.

The Public Prosecutor, requesting a fine, said that he appreciated sentiments that inspired the accused and was inclined to indulgence.

(Reuter's Service)

Mayence, Jan. 25.—The population is relieved at the unexpected lightness of the sentences passed on the magnates but nevertheless made a noisy demonstration necessitating activity of French troops but no armed collisions occurred.

Strike efforts throughout the Ruhr continue to be sporadic and indefinite and up to the present there has been no sign of them becoming general. Forty-three thousand men are idle in the Thyssen mine while the only oth-

Manifesto By Sun Yat-sen

The following was sent to THE CHINA PRESS last evening with Dr. Sun Yat-sen's compliments. Dr. Sun is leaving for Canton on Saturday to resume his duties as Constitutionalist President:

Dr. Sun Yat-sen has dispatched a lengthy circular telegram on unification and disbandment of troops addressed specifically to Generals Li Yuan-hung, Chang Shou-tsang and Feng Yu-hsiang, Peking; General Tsao Kun, Paotingfu; General Wu Pei-fu, Loyang; General Tuan Chi-jui, Tientsin; General Chang Tso-lin, Mukden; General Lu Yung-hsiang, Hangchow; and General Chi Shi-yuan, Nanking. The telegram is also being communicated, in the sense of information, to some other military leaders of secondary importance.

The telegram begins with a reference to Dr. Sun's Manifesto of August 15 last, in which he urged a settlement of the constitutional question and the reunification of the country by peaceful means but demanded the punishment of Chen Chiung-ming as a measure of justice for his betrayal of the Constitutionalist cause and for reinflicting the evils and calamities of civil war on the people of Kwangtung.

Barrier Moved

Now that the Constitutionalist forces have driven away Chen Chiung-ming from Canton, Dr. Sun suggests that a considerable barrier has been removed and constructive work is rendered more practicable. He declares that he will do his utmost to hasten the reunification of China by peaceful means and so bring to an end the fighting of the past six years and reinstitute the rule of law in the country. They who have died will not have died in vain if an united China arises out of the disorders of today.

Surveying the national situation, Dr. Sun points out that the Government at Peking is not entirely organised in accordance with law. This illegality at the head is reflected in the disordered condition of the provinces, many of which are practically independent and not amenable to the authority of Peking. The Parliamentary question is still unsettled owing to "law-destroyers being intermingled with law-upholders" in Parliament. And not only is the imperative demand of the nation for the disbandment of troops and the abolition of the Tuchun-system ignored but fresh enlistment of troops and preparations of war are in vigorous progress. It must be clear to everyone that if this state of things is allowed to continue, the re-establishment of peace will be necessarily remote and disaster and calamity must befall the country.

Chief Evil

The chief evil of the day, therefore, is a lack of respect for the law on the part of those actually in power and a lack of understanding and co-operation among the parties and factions in the country.

The main ruling forces in China at the moment may be roughly divided into four groups, namely, the Chihli Party, the Fengtien Party, the Anhui Party, and the South-West Provinces.

"China's reunification lies with these four parties," Dr. Sun declares. "If they can understand one another and co-operate sincerely and have for their common aim and duty, the upholding of the law, then there is no reason why they cannot bring about reunification. And I now propose to work to this end by peaceful means."

Before reunification is actually effected, Dr. Sun proposes that these four parties should each confine themselves within their respective provinces and refrain from interfering with the affairs of the others.

For Disbanament

"If other leaders of these parties," Dr. Sun states, "are in sympathy with this proposal, I shall do my utmost to bring about peace and reunification. But peace and reunification depends principally and necessarily on the disbandment of troops. You cannot talk about peace and make fresh preparations for war. China's superfluous troops are like a grave disease in the body politic: you cannot cure a disease by worsening it.... Some insist that disbandment of troops cannot be discussed before reunification. This, surely, is to make for more and further national troubles. If troops are not disbanded, there will be and can be no peace. Without peace, reunification is wholly illusory. When you talk of peace, with troops at your side, you increase confusion. When you talk of law, with troops back of you, you destroy the law. Too much might weakens the right. Too much military force destroys civil rule. . . . I speak not to raise difficulties. I speak soberly."

Dr. Sun next defines a concrete proposal for the disbandment

'NO EATS, NO JOB,' IS PARLIAMENT'S VERDICT ON SZE

He Refuses To Provide Feast For Solons, Is Rejected

BY UNITED PRESS

Peking, Jan. 25.—Parliament refused to ratify the appointment of Dr. Alfred Sze as foreign minister for the reason that he was the only cabinet nominee who failed to provide a feast for the parliamentarians. All other cabinet nominees were confirmed. Dr. Sze has been ill with influenza for a fortnight.

(Eastern News Agency)

Peking, Jan. 24.—The nomination of Dr. Alfred Sze as Minister of Foreign Affairs having been rejected at yesterday's sitting of the Senate, Dr. C. T. Wang and Dr. W. W. Yen are now generally considered to be the most promising candidates for the portfolio. The failure of Dr. Alfred Sze in the election was due to his negative attitude, having failed to bring about an understanding with M. P.'s of the Senate. In this connection, a certain influential M. P. of the Senate states that about one hour prior to the opening of the sitting yesterday, M. P.'s from the Three Eastern Provinces suddenly started their propaganda and prevailed upon the M. P.'s from the other provinces to refrain from casting their polls for Dr. Sze.

It is reported that Premier Chang Shou-tseng, with a view to appointing Mr. Wang Yung-yao, Chinese Minister to Japan, as Minister of Foreign Affairs, is now communicating with President Li Yuan-hung and Mr. Wang Yung-pao.

Salt Revenue For 1922 Reveals Gain Of $7,801,000

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Jan. 24.—The Salt Revenue for 1922 after meeting administrative expenses amounted to $85,789,000, which is an increase of $7,801,000 as compared with the amount in 1921.

All obligations secured by the Salt Revenue have been fully met.

The surplus funds, released to the Government totalled $78,862,000, but $31,000,000 of this represents sums retained locally or appropriated by provincial authorities or militarists.

These retentions have increased by $13,000,000 as compared with last year. The reserve in the banks is maintained at $7,000,000.

DR. SUN HOST AT FAREWELL DINNER HERE, TELLS PLANS

Explains His Manifesto To Friends At Home

DISARM, MOTTO

Attributes Success In South To Power Of Pen

On the eve of his departure for Canton to assume his office as Generalissimo of the Army of the five Southwestern provinces, Dr. Sun Yat-sen last night gave a dinner to prominent Chinese journalists at his home on Rue Moliere. National disarmament was the keynote of his address and he pleaded that the press in Shanghai devote its undivided effort in this direction for the next three months.

A concrete plan for national disarmament as presented by Dr. Sun in his latest manisfesto, of which the text appears on this page, was described by the host to the two dozen newspaper men attending the party.

By way of introduction, he described the fall of General Chen Chiung-ming, his political opponent in Canton, and attributed the cause of his fall to the very effective propaganda work done by the public in Hongkong and to the fighting spirit of the Yunnanese Army.

PEN POWERFUL FACTOR

"It took us only 20 days to overthrow Chen," said Dr. Sun, in part. But without the aid of the pen, it might have taken us many days more; and lives might have been sacrificed. The force of arms is apparent, but the power of the pen is latent and one is just as effective as the other. A judicial use of both will bring the desired result. Before the campaign against Chen, a group of Chinese in Hongkong got together and attacked Chen day after day with cartoons and window displays. He was condemned, ridiculed and otherwise places in a despised position. The force of public opinion cut deep into the hearts of his army, so it was an easy matter for the victors to rout it.

"The press of Shanghai is regarded as the guiding star of the nation and any campaign that it might conduct is bound to secure the desired effect. I invite you to this gathering tonight to ask you to lend your support to one big issue. 'Down with Chen' was our issue in Canton. Let the national issue today be 'Down with armament!'"

Then Dr. Sun described in detail the plan for disarmament as set forth in his manifesto, undertaking to reduce the army of the five Southwestern provinces by 50 percent if the three other "groups," the Chihli party, the Fengtien party and the Anhui party agree to do the same. He intimated that a loan from a foreign source will be forthcoming as soon as such an agreement is reached and announced that he would "cure poison by administering poison" by resorting to arms if any one commits a breach of the agreement after its sanction.

DISCUSSION FOLLOWS

An informal discussion followed Dr. Sun's speech. Mr. Sze Liang-chai, publisher of the Shun Pao suggested the observation of a national day for disarmament when the press, merchants and students may join in a demonstration to hasten the work.

Mr. Jabin Hsu of THE CHINA PRESS pointed out that the Disarmament Committee of the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce, of which he is a member, has already set aside a date in March for this purpose as the result of his suggestion and he asked that the press make use of this same day to answer for the purpose suggested by Mr. Sze. General approval was expressed by the Chinese journalists.

Dr. Sun will leave either Saturday or Sunday. Shipping arrangements has not yet been completed. He will be accompanied by a dozen leading Constitutionalists. Mrs. Sun is remaining in Shanghai.

Mr. Yi Yah-sheng, a Cantonese Parliamentarian who participated in the campaign against Chen Chiung-ming, arrived in Shanghai yesterday and paid a visit to Dr. Sun. He extended to Dr. Sun a formal invitation on behalf of the Kwangtung leaders to return to Canton to direct its rehabilitation.

Rubber Goes Up Again, Three Farthings In Day

Rubber is up again both on the London and Singapore markets. The London quotation has gone up to 1s. 6½d., being a rise of three farthings per pound within a day, while the rate in Singapore has jumped to 66 cents per pound, an appreciation of 1½ cents per pound. Singapore quotes July-December at 70½ cents per pound.

The effect of this news on the Shanghai rubber market was [illegible] yesterday settlement day on the Stock Exchange, and all forward transactions were met. Large blocks of rubber shares were taken up, indicating that the buyers are not all speculators.

The latest jump in the price of the raw material is presumably the result of a good demand in London as well as in Singapore. The market is cabled quite firm.

The stocks of rubber in London are estimated to be about 70,000 tons, but those in the Straits Settlements and Java have almost disappeared. The only explanation is that the American buyer prefers Singapore.

By purchasing in the Singapore market the American manufacturer eliminates the expense of handling and reshipping. This [illegible] expenditure is estimated to [illegible] pound. It is not correct to say that all the buying is done on the Singapore market, but the American manufacturers evidently buy the bulk of their rubber in that town and in Java.

Singapore prices are still above London rates; 66 cents is very nearly 1s. 7d. per pound, and if we add another penny per pound for freight, insurance, etc. it can be landed in London at 1s. 8d.

The Singapore auctions have been very small lately. They used to offer some 700 to 800 tons of smoked, crepe and sheet rubber a week, but the quantity now offered is somewhere between 400 and 600 tons. A great deal is sold by private treaty through brokers, while in London they have done away with auctions and everything is sold by contract and private treaty.

These high prices for rubber have been in existence for two months only, and the average since the Stevenson Restriction scheme was put into force on November 1 works out at somewhere between 40 and 45 cents per pound. It is therefore a long way off the 1s. 3d. per lb. that the Stevenson Committee fixed. A 52-cents average would correspond to 1s. 3d. per lb. Rubber would therefore have to go up another 3d. per lb. for a 1s. 3d. average to be attained for the three initial months.

Under the Restriction Ordinance should the average of three months reach 1s. 3d. the Committee will release an extra five percent. A close reading of the Ordinance would seem to show that the three-month periods will be taken separately, and each quarter will stand by itself.

SHANGHAI RADIO FANS ENJOY MUSIC, SINGING, AND DOMINO'S STORIES

Third Program Proves Delightful To Owners Of Receiving Sets; Heyes Trio, Mr. Raggett, Baritone, And China Press Staff Member Entertain

"INTERFERENCE" STILL TROUBLES

Ships' Operators, Unaware Of Broadcasting Here, Cause Of Mix-Ups; Astor House Receiver To Be Re-connected In Few Days

Last night's radio concert, third of the nightly programs broadcasted from the Robert Dollar building by the Radio Corporation of China in conjunction with THE CHINA PRESS, was heard and appreciated by all of the Shanghai amateurs who have the good fortune to possess receiving sets.

The program, which in some respects was the best yet offered, was also heard in Hongkong and by ships at sea. The Pacific Mail liner Cleveland, anchored at Woosung, picked up the songs, jokes, news bulletins, musical numbers, etc. that were included in the program, and enjoyed them immensely, Students at Nanyang college also heard the program with great distinctness.

As on the night before there was some "interference," caused by other radio operators, assumed in most instances to have been unaware of the broadcasting program, breaking in. Because of these interruptions the listeners at the French wireless station did not get much enjoyment out of the program. The radio experts at that station were able to identify a few of the disturbing calls, and in each instance they were attributed to lack of knowledge on the part of the operators that the broadcasting program was in progress.

CAUSE OF TROUBLE

Mr. Osborn, the radio expert in charge of the broadcasting work here, said that interference difficulties would cease just as soon as ship operators who make this port learned of the nightly broadcasting program. He said these operators, in all probability, were interfered with by the broadcasting fully as much as their signals interfered with the work here, and that they probably attributed the interruptions to their work to Shanghai amateurs. Mr. Osborn said he knew enough about marine wireless men to know that they would drop their work any time, unless it happened to be extremely urgent, to listen to a broadcasted entertainment program, and he could tell, he said, from the nature of some of the interfering messages that they were sent by operators who did not dream there was real music in the air.

A DOMINO YARN

As to last night's program it was what you might call a humdinger. Domino, the w.k. Shanghai smile manufacturer, told a few old stories and a few new ones, including, among the latter, a yarn about a certain colored boy who stepped into a drug store one day (drug store being Americanese for chemist's shop) and asked the druggist if he might use the telephone. The druggist gave permission whereupon the youth called up a certain number, and a minute later was asking the party at the other end of the wire if by any chance he happened to require the services of a colored boy, to work about the house, now the lawn, 'tend the furnace, wash the motor car, etc.

The answer to this application was in the negative, apparently, for the boy, after waiting for the other to finish, said he was sorry, as he had been in hopes of getting a job. As he hung up the receiver the druggist, who had overheard the conversation, said to the colored boy:

"Say George, if you want a job I'll give you one. I need a boy of just about your cut to work around the store here." The boy's reply to this offer, Domino said, was a broad grin.

"Youse mistaken, boss," he chuckled, "I ain't lookin' fer no job. That man I called up is my boss."

"Your boss!" repeated the druggist, amazed. "If he is already your boss why were you asking him for a job?"

At this the colored boy's grin, Domino said, grew broader than ever.

"Mister," he explained, "Ise jes checkin' up on mahself."

MR. RAGGETT SINGS

Good as were Domino's stories it is doubtful whether they were more appreciated than Mr. Raggett's singing. Mr. Raggett, star

ADMIRAL LINERS AND ALL Y.M.C.A.'S MAY HAVE RADIO

Radiophone Springs Into Instant Favor Overnight; Scores Of Inquiries

All Admiral Line ships and all Chinese Y.M.C.A.'s in China will be equipped with radiophone receiving sets so that they will be able to listen in at all programs broadcasted by THE CHINA PRESS from the Radio Corporation of China's broadcasting station on top of the Dollar building if present plans materialise.

Representatives of the Admiral-Oriental Line conferred with Mr. Osborn of the Radio Corporation and a representative of THE CHINA PRESS yesterday afternoon and preliminary arrangements for the installation of receiving sets on all Admiral Liners were made. The Admiral Line was extremely pleased at the success of the concert on Wednesday night when one of their ships heard the concert plainly off Woosung and desire to give their passengers the pleasure of the concert every evening. When installed the phones will enable passengers to hear from Yokohama to Manila when Shanghai broadcasts.

Prof. Robertson, who gave a 'radio party' at the Y.M.C.A. on the first broadcasting night with exceptional success, and Dr. John Y. Lee of the 'Y' also conferred with Mr. Osborn yesterday congratulating him on the success of the radio broadcasting. In China and assuring him of their support in every possible way. They have already planned to have radio receiving sets installed in every 'Y' in the country.

The educational features of the radio are receiving the attention of schools and missions all over the country as well, and missions are planning on having a receiving set at each of their interior stations so that the missionaries, cut off from the rest of the world may receive night news bulletins and programs from THE CHINA PRESS broadcasting station. Both the Radio Corporation at 3 Canton Road and THE CHINA PRESS have been flooded with letters of congratulation and inquiry. The radio has come to China!

of the current A. D. C. show at the Lyceum, has a wonderful voice and if it sounded half as good to the listeners at the other ends of the ether lanes as it did to those in the broadcasting room on top of the dollar building they were delighted indeed.

Bertie Heyes and his brother Lennie and their pianist, Z. Jary, constituting the famous Palace Hotel trio, furnished the instrumental part of the program, and were in wonderful form. One of Bertie's violin solo's reached Hongkong, according to radio message received later in the evening, and was greatly appreciated there.

Mr. Osborn said last night that in a day or so, just as soon as he can be absolutely certain that everything will go right, the radio programs in the Astor House Grill room will be continued.

TONIGHT'S PROGRAM

The radio to be broadcasted through the skies beginning at 8 o'clock tonight will be another splendid arrangement of musical and vocal numbers, phonograph selections and news bulletins.

Mr. George Warn, fluegelhorn soloist and cornet jazzer, is already a favorite of Shanghai dancers and music lovers, and at 8:15 tonight will tune up his fluegelhorn and cornet as the hundreds of receiving sets in Shanghai and ships at sea tune in to play two or three of his best numbers. Mr. Warn is being featured at St. George's, the popular Bubbling Well cafe and dancing place, each evening.

Miss Adaline Hoffman has just arrived in Shanghai from Honolulu where she was a star performer on the steel guitar and 'uke' in the home of Hawaiian melody. She was on the first program broadcasted in Hawaii when the radio—now scattered around the world—reached the Crossroads of the Pacific, and will sing and play some of the same numbers for tonight's program.

Mr. Fred Blackinger, pianist extraordinary, has just arrived in Shanghai from Manila where he was pianist at the Manila Hotel, and a member of the famous Manila jazz band. Mr. Blackinger is now playing nightly at St. George's on Bubbling Well Road. He will play classical and jazz solos on tonight's program at 8:30.

THE CHINA PRESS, as on previous nights and every night in the future, will broadcast the latest world and local news bulletins. The news bulletins are especially appreciated by 'audiences' on ships at sea, approaching Shanghai, and by a number of amateurs in Shanghai and the surrounding country who are not able to get their CHINA PRESS at breakfast every morning as does the rest of the Settlement.

GALA NIGHT

A special program has been arranged for the annual meeting of the American University Club at the Columbia Country Club tomorrow night. Musical selections and news bulletins will be interspersed with college yells by radio—led by an invisible cheer leader several miles away—and other interesting and novel features. The broadcasting tomorrow night will start a little later than usual and all radio fans are requested to read tomorrow morning's CHINA PRESS for complete details and time schedule.

On Sunday night a special feature program of sacred music and a short sermon has been arranged to be broadcasted to hundreds of those who are too far from Shanghai to attend services that evening. Complete details will be published in THE CHINA PRESS of Saturday.

MANY GOOD REPORTS

Despite the partial failure of the public radio concert because of mechanical difficulties, 'butting in' by outside stations and snow on the aerials, dozens of owners of private sets have reported that they heard the programs perfectly. The French wireless station and a number of ships also heard everything broadcasted very distinctly.

Mr. A. A. Kees of the American School reported that the modulation of the concert on Tuesday night was perfect and that they had enjoyed the program immensely.

Mr. T. W. Chen on Honan Road reported to THE CHINA PRESS that he had listened with great success on a set which he had rigged up himself.

Mr. J. Y. Yen of the English Editorial department of the Commercial Press, wrote THE CHINA PRESS yesterday as follows:

"I enjoyed every bit of your broadcasting program yesterday evening (January 23). As I am using a crystal and one-stage amplifier the music comes in pretty QSA (radio signal meaning clear) but not so loud as FEZ (the French wireless station's signal)."

Mr. T. F. Wang of the wireless station at Nanyang Middle School, Longwha, wrote:

"Your music and program was heard here very QSA (clear) and can be heard blocks away with one step of amplication. Receiving equipment: Short and long wave receivers with 2 stage amplifier. Transmitter ¼ K.W. spark and 20 watts phone set."

Mr. Wang also advised THE CHINA PRESS-Radio Corporation of China station that he will remain silent with his sending at any time.

A number of boys of the Cathedral School have sets now, many of them home made, and several of them reported yesterday that they had heard the programs, and especially the music, quite distinctly. They were all 'tuned in' last night to hear "Domino's" stories.

All owners of private sets are requested to drop The Radio Editor, THE CHINA PRESS, a line and report of what success they have had.

DR. SUN BUYS LIBRARY OF LATE T. R. JERNIGAN

A great part of the library formerly belonging to the late Mr. T. R. Jernigan has been purchased by Dr. Sun Yat-sen, it was learned yesterday. The remaining books, mostly rare works, are still in the possession of Mr. Paul Jernigan, son of the eminent jurist and negotiations are being carried on between Dr. Sun and young Jernigan for their acquisition.

The Jernigan library was considered one of the most complete law libraries in the whole of China and some of the volumes are very much prized by attorneys, especially those practising in the Orient. One of the copies, entitled "The Constitutional Debates of the United States," which is now in the possession of Dr. Sun was much valued by Mr. Jernigan's former partner, Mr. S. Fessenden. This is the only work, it is believed, that contains all the proceedings in connection with the drafting and enactment of the American Constitution.

The late Mr. Jernigan was one of the closest friends and most esteemed advisors of the Constitutional leader. One of the pictures which decorates the main parlor of Dr. Sun's home on Rue Moliere was presented to him by Mr. Jernigan. It is a picture depicting Washington refusing the dictatorship offered him after his success in securing territorial and administrative autonomy for North America.

Dr. Pott Opposes Use Of Municipal Funds For National Schools

St. John's University President, At Rotary Club, Decries Racial Snobbishness; Urges International Spirit

Sounding a warning against the use of municipal funds for national schools in Shanghai and making a plea for broad international feeling rather than development of selfish national spirit, Dr. F. L. Hawks Pott, President of St. John's University, in an able address before the Rotary Club yesterday, gave an insight into the problems facing the Educational Commission of the Settlement.

Dr. Pott decried racial snobbishness in the schools and expressed the hope that an international spirit would be engendered in institutions where all nationalities rub shoulders.

He saw a danger in an intensively developed selfish national spirit. "Soon we will have our American public gardens and our American cemetery and other nationalities will do likewise," he said.

"I am not against national schools," he said, "They are excellent institutions and are necessary but they certainly should not depend on help from the Municipal Council. Council funds should be for public schools.

RACIAL SNOBBISHNESS

"I hope that the American School will not bar the children of other nationalities and I also hope that children with a trace of Chinese blood in their veins will not be excluded from this institution. It is in defiance of American ideas and ideals.

"There are too many parents who labor under the delusion that a pure blooded child will be tainted by association with a child of mixed blood. Such racial snobbishness is to be deplored."

Dr. Pott told of the early days of education in Shanghai. The first school for foreign boys was founded by the Masonic bodies in 1886 and this later became a Municipal school. In 1891 through private enterprise, a school for Eurasian children was founded and this was later taken over by the Council.

"Today," said Dr. Pott, "there are seven public schools, a new institution is being erected for girl students, and the council aids four schools by grants from public funds."

The first national school was founded by Miss Jewell and really developed into the Shanghai American School, the speaker said, as he told of the British, French and Japanese schools that were later established. There are 600 pupils at the Japanese School, he said. The first public school for Chinese came in 1894. Now there are four. Dr. Pott also told of the educational work being done by Roman Catholic institutions here.

NATIONAL SCHOOLS

There are many problems to be discussed when thinking of the future development of our educational system here, Dr. Pott said. "Some are urging a director of education. There are many other matters to be discussed. One of these is whether or not the Council should aid national schools.

"One of the arguments in favor is that the ratepayer is obliged to pay taxes and in addition must pay for the education of children. We do the same in America. We pay taxes for our public schools and then most of us send our children to private institutions.

"There are many who desire their children to be educated in the spirit of their own country—the spirit of the parents, and this is a laudable idea. I am not against national schools, but the introduction of a great group of elementary national schools here would be a disaster."

It was here that Dr. Pott made his reference to racial snobbishness of parents and institutions, recalling that in the early days there was one great international community. "Now segregation is the popular idea," he said.

"Today national spirit is being emphasised everywhere. We need to emphasise our national spirit, but we need to emphasise more an international spirit and we should eliminate any spirit of intolerance."

MR. LYON SPEAKS

Mr. D. Willard Lyon, General Secretary of the Y.M.C.A. in New York, who first came to China in 1895, told the Rotary Club of the difficulties met by the "Y" in training a staff in this country.

The big problems were to develop a board of directors, and train Chinese secretaries, he said.

The "Y" 's objective in China is to transplant the fundamental ideas of the North American associations in this country and not to transfer the movement from America to China, Mr. Lyon asserted.

of troops. He calls for the reduction of the total number of China's troops by half and the conversion of this half into labor corps for the construction of roads, railways and other works of public utility. If this principle is accepted by the principal party leaders, Dr. Sun proposes that they join him in inviting a friendly foreign power to assist them in devising ways and means to work out and put into operation this principle of troop-disbandment, including the raising of a disbandment loan which is to be spent and applied under the supervision of a foreign expert and of five delegates representing the interests of Agriculture, Labor, Commerce, Education and the Press in China.

Way Is Open

"If you approve of this proposal," Dr. Sun adds, "it can be carried out at once. . . . After reunification is effected, we can discuss the larger problem of reconstruction, and questions of finance and other things can be dealt with one by one. The people will then take an active interest in the public affairs of the country freely and without fear of force. And so reunification will have been realised permanently, not temporarily—a reality, not a make-believe."

Dr. Sun ends by emphasising that troops are intended for the work of national defence and are not an instrument of self-aggrandisement or for the usurpation of national power. "If this conception prevails in China, we shall be able gradually to rise to the level of the other Powers of the world, and future generations shall enjoy the fruits of our labor. . . . Militarism is self-destroying. I love my country even as I love life itself. And so I cannot see the country sinking without striving to save it. I pray, however, that no untoward thing may happen to force me to other than peaceful measures in the service of China. You, too, are strong in virtue, and since you wish the country's welfare, may I not hope that you will boldly embrace my proposal and carry it out.

"I speak to you in words of earnestness in the name of our people. Let me hope that we may all work together."

As Safe As Shanghai

From time memorial land has been regarded as the safest form of security. It is the foundation and source of all value—the fundamental commodity. Man himself is a land animal: on land he lives and on the products of land he exists. Furthermore, as civilization progresses the natural course of land values is to increase.

For these reasons mortgages on land have been and are becoming even so a favorite form of investment. Real estate mortgages based on Shanghai property are as safe as the city itself. As long as Shanghai exists their security remains.

The real estate bonds which we have for sale are in convenient denominations, are secured by local property and pay 7% interest.

Witness In Murder Case Tells Of Seeing Chinese With Club In His Hand

Important Testimony For Prosecution Given In Trial Following Death Of Bernard Hurld

Testimony tending to show that Bernard F. Hurld, the young American engineer killed on January 12, was struck on the head by Voong Ah-tsho, barboy at the Portland House, was given by a witness at the Mixed Court yesterday, when the boy was placed on trial for murder.

The case is being heard by Assessor King and Magistrate Loh. Mr. E. Maitland appearing for the prosecution and Mr. J. Schoenfeld for the defense. Evidence was given by Dr. Thomas B. Dunn, Dr. J. B. Fearn, Mr. Henry Moore, of the Astor Bar, Sergeant Martin, of the U. S. Marine Corps, Mr. F. Senna, Detective Inspector Cruickshank and a Miss Javisky.

Dr. Dunn's testimony was similar to that given by him at the inquest. His opinion was that deceased has been struck with a blunt wooden weapon. It was unlikely that the fractured skull could have been caused by a fall, and there was evidence of a blow on the top of the crown.

Dr. Fearn testified that the deceased came to the General Hospital at about 7:30 p.m. January 12 complaining of an injury which he said had been caused by a fall. The man had evidently been drinking and thinking it was a case of intoxication he gave him some medicine. He was later informed that Hurld returned to the hospital about 9 p.m. and next morning he found him unconscious. The symptoms of a person under the influence of liquor and suffering from a blow such as Dr. Dunn described would be similar.

Mr. Moore, of the Astor Bar, stated that he knew Hurld intimately. He had been in the Astor Bar about 3 p.m. on the 12th, evidently in perfect health. He had a couple of drinks but was not drunk when he left the Bar. He returned at about 6:30 p.m. and asked witness to feel a bump on his head. He seemed to have been hit on the head and said he had had a fall. He was not drunk, but seemed "silly," was dull and had no idea of things. Mr. Moore said he did not know anything about Hurld's movements between 3:15 and 6:30 p.m. of the date in question.

Sergeant Martin told of seeing Hurld at about 6 o'clock outside a barber shop talking to a ricsha coolie. He followed the witness into the Astor Bar and told him that he had been hit over the head with a club by a Chinese. He asked the witness to feel the bump on his head. In reply to a query by the Court as to whether he was sure Hurld had said he had a fight with a Chinese, Sergeant Martin replied in the affirmative.

The most important testimony of the day for the prosecution was given by the next witness, Mr. F. Senna, of Messrs. Weeks and Co. The witness said he was passing the Portland Bar on a tramcar at about ten minutes before 6 o'clock when he saw a foreigner sitting in a ricsha rubbing his head, while a Chinese stood nearby holding a round club about 18 inches long in his right hand. The club looked like a rolling pin. Mr. Senna said he tried to get off the car immediately to make inquiry, as he thought the foreigner was hurt, but the car was crowded and he could not alight until it reached the bridge. When he got back to the Portland, both foreigner and Chinese had disappeared.

Mr. Senna then told of going to Hongkew police station and picking the defendant out of a number of Chinese as the man he had seen with the club. He recognised him on account of his size and build. Cross-examined by Mr. Schoenfeld the witness said he could not swear that it was the same man, but his size and build were the same. It was dark when he passed the Bar but the car was moving slowly and the Chinese was only about two yards away.

Inspector Cruickshank testified regarding a statement written out following the arrest of the accused.

Miss Javisky, Russian, was the last witness. She said that she had been in the Portland Bar when Hurld came in, very drunk. He had got into an altercation with the boy and had seized the latter by the neck and beat him with his fist about the face. The boy, she said, had to have his face attended to and was sent home. The witness spoke broken English and evidently had difficulty in understanding questions. Much of her evidence was contradictory or irrelevant.

The hearing lasted well into the afternoon and was then adjourned until next Monday.

Essen, Jan. 25.—Despatches show that as a result of twelve days' occupation France received 28,000 tons of coal from the Ruhr whereas if there had been no occupation she would have received 800,000 tons under reparation deliveries.

Germany before occupation of the Ruhr received 20,000 truckloads daily from the Ruhr. This has been increased by 8,000 truckloads daily since the occupation.

(Reuter's Service)

(Reuter's Service)

Essen, Jan. 24.—It is stated on French authority that the occupied territory will be completely cut off from the rest of Germany tomorrow. It is understood that 250 French Customs officers have arrived.

The mining directorates are of opinion that a general strike is not likely if the six industrialists are only fined.

The French and Belgians are everywhere meeting with uncompromising hostility. Railwaymen, telephonists and others are all refusing to have anything to do with them. The Germans today refused to supply coal even for local French use and, likewise, are refusing to drive trains in which there are French or Belgians.

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Jan. 24.—At the meeting of the Italian Cabinet on Monday, the Premier, Signor Mussolini, gave a detailed account of the situation in the Ruhr. He emphasised that, by reason of the resistance of Germany, the French and Belgian troops proceeded to requisition coal depots near the mines, factories and railway stations and have taken other political and military measures.

Signor Mussolini added that the Italian engineers had been sent to the Ruhr with the sole object of taking part in the economic control operations and had been ordered to limit their collaboration to operations of a technical character. This attitude, he said, was from the beginning clearly defined and understood at Paris.

With regard to the rumor of mediation between France and Germany, the Prime Minister declared that the Italian Government could in no way for the present modify its attitude.

Speaking of the moratorium plan submitted to the Reparations Commission by the French Government Signor Mussolini emphasised that the project accepted some of the fundamental points of the Italian memorandum, submitted to the London Conference in December last, namely, the two years' moratorium and the internal German loan.

The Premier remarked that Italy by withdrawing her troops on the Rhine had not modified her attitude of waiting and disinterestedness.

(Reuter's Service)

London, Jan. 24.—The Council of the Tradeunion Congress and the Executive of the British Labor Party have jointly issued a manifesto, expressing solidarity with the German workmen in the Ruhr and demanding the Government to intervene diplomatically to secure immediate evacuation of the Ruhr.

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, Jan. 24.—The Ministry of War announces that owing to the partial strike on the railways in the Ruhr five detachments of railway troops of 750 men each, selected from the personnel of the French railways, will leave tonight for the Rhineland, in order to assure the necessary communications.

M. Le Trocquer, the Minister of Public Works, and General Weygand are proceeding to the Ruhr to inquire into the situation.

(Reuter's Service)

Essen, Jan. 24.—The French are taking complete control of the railways.

They assert that, if the Germans refuse to operate the trains, they have sufficient drivers to maintain the principal services.

Six hundred French drivers and firemen have already arrived.

(Reuter's Service)

London, Jan. 24.—With reference to the outcry in a section of the British press, declaring that the arrest of the German finance official at Cologne is a blow to British prestige and demanding an inequivocal statement of the Government's policy as regards the British occupied area, Reuter's Agency learns that, as a result of a meeting between Marquess Crewe, the British Ambassador, and M. Poincare at Paris yesterday, the situation as between the British and French authorities in the Rhineland has been considerably clarified.

It is unlikely that any misunderstandings will now arise.

It has been made clear that Britain is unable to co-operate in the application of any form of sanctions in the British area and that the British troops cannot be used to assist the French authorities.

Also that nothing will be done to hinder the French in the execution of whatever measures they may deem necessary.

Instructions have been sent to the French High Commissioner of the Rhineland to make matters as easy as possible for the British authorities.

(Reuter's Service)

London, Jan. 24.—With reference to the speech of the Japanese Premier at the reopening of the Diet, in which Admiral Baron Kato prophesied that if France and Italy failed to ratify the Washington Naval Treaty it would not be impossible for the other signatories to reach a certain agreement, it is stated here that nothing is known in responsible quarters of any understanding between Great Britain, the United States and Japan regarding the course to be followed in the unlikely contingency of France and Italy not ratifying the Treaty.

STORING OF ARMS CASE REMANDED UNTIL NEXT WEEK

Traffic Violation Charges Also Brought Against Fei Lung Garage

The case in which Tsung Ah-kung, the proprietor of the Fei Lung Garage, 1787 Bubbling Well Road, and his brother, Tsung Yue-tsung, are charged with storing arms and ammunition and with being in possession of opium and smoking apparatus, was called before Assessor Allman and Magistrate Yui at the Mixed Court yesterday and was remanded until next Thursday.

Mr. Eardley Maitland, appearing for the prosecution, stated that he had spoken with C. S. Franklin, for the defense, regarding the setting of the case for a special hearing. Mr. Faison, also for the defense, agreed to the remand proposed, but Dr. O. Fischer, also for the defense, objected and asked that the case be proceeded with as his client was anxious to have the matter cleared up so that he might proceed with the work in connection with Chinese New Year accounts. After some argument the case was remanded until next Thursday morning.

The charge against the garage men is that they had stored on the premises two automatic pistols, 8 boxes of ammunition, three rounds of rifle ammunition and five wooden automatic pistol cases. The opium charge is an added charge.

The arms case was mentioned also yesterday in connection with two cases brought up in the Traffic Court. In these the Fei Lung garage was charged with causing a motor car to be used without a license and with failing to keep car number plates in such condition as to be readily legible. Chief Inspector Kinniple asked that the cases be remanded to come before Assessor Allman next week to be heard in connection with the "gun running" case from Kiukiang.

Similarly, Tuesday mornings and evenings at the Range are allotted for recruits and third-class shots to fire, the instructional (Part I) portion of the A. M. C., but in this case the firing is to be done under the superintendence of Unit Musketry Instructors and not of Corps headquarters.

No. 11. Machine Gun Course.—Machine Gunners of Machine Gun Units are reminded that, under the terms of Part III of the Corps regulations (pages 56 to 58), they are required to fire the classification (Part II) Machine Gun Course and qualify as 2nd Class Machine Gunners, as well as 2nd Class shots in the Rifle Course. In order to qualify as first class efficient detail's of both rifle and Machine Gun Course are to be found in the pamphlet entitled "Musketry 1922-23."

Tonight's game, at Rowing Club, at 5:30 p.m., Blues vs. Stripes.

BY TOMMY GRAFTON

Both the Bearcats and the American School captured their matches in the Foreign Basketball League last night, when Kenny Irle's five trounced the Public School quintet in a one-sided 62 to 17 affair on the Y.M.C.A. floor, and the Whites forfeited to the S.A.S.

The Public School team was in poor form, and the Bearcats rolled up a tremendous lead in the first half, through the great shooting of Irle and Elliott. The latter had a big evening at forward, netting eight baskets. During the period, the schoolboys were unable to keep the ball, and Jack Levis scored the only goal by a long shot.

The second half saw the game tighten up, Levis and Remedios coming through with good shooting. Lewis caged a sensational basket from back of center. Roxburgh came back in grand form after several weeks of poor shooting, and scored eight goals. Irle furnished the feature with a spectacular overhand toss.

BLUES vs. STRIPES

Tonight the Blues play the Stripes on the Rowing Club floor. Next week Neprud's crew will take on Irle's Bearcats and the American School in the decisive contests of the season. The Blues are now a game and a half ahead of their rivals, and should increase their lead to two full games tonight.

The summary for last night's game is as follows:

SAILORS LOSE

The American School defeated the team from the U. S. S. Asheville, in a friendly game by the decisive score of 54 to 15.

The sailors showed lack of practice, and were unable to find the loop in the first half, when Edmunds' pennant chances ran wild, scoring a great number of baskets through Roy Squires and Shipley. After ten minutes of play, the S.A.S. second team took the field, and played a fast, driving game, in which McDaniel and Parker starred.

Spears played a fast game for the Navy men, scoring five baskets from the floor, and one throw from the foul line. "Hick" Shipley, Roy Squires, Parker, and McDaniel, were the big guns for the school team.

The summary follows:

CHURCH QUINT FINALLY WINS; DEFEATS ALUMNI

For the first time in the Chinese Basketball League series, the Cantonese Baptist Church quintet came out as the winner last evening in a close game with the team representing the Alumni of the Public School for Chinese. After seven straight defeats, the church members were at length awarded with a win which was gained after a hard fight.

The outcome of the game, however, was not altogether unexpected. The Cantonese team has been strengthened by three new players, Euyang, the center; Lin, forward, and Liang, the crack guard from Soochow. With Tsung and K. L. Liang, they make a strong combination.

The church quintet led during the part of the first period, but the alumni team soon evened up. Two goals by Yui put the Alumni in the lead by four points. The score-board read at the recess, 14 to 10.

The forwards of the church team ran wild with opening of the second period, succeeding in netting four baskets from the floor and two fouls. The final score was 20 to 17.

25 YEAR VETERAN FOOTBALL PLAYER IS GOING STRONG

Frank Kanae, Hawaiian, has played football twenty-five years and during the season just closed set such a fast pace that he was regarded as one of the best line men in Hawaii.

Kanae, who is forty years old and the father of sixteen children many years ago earned the title of "cannon ball," the result of his fierce line charging.

"But the game isn't as of yore," says Kanae. "No fight left in it. It's getting tame, the old game with the hurdling and the mass plays was the stuff," Kanae remarks. "That's when you had to yell 'down' when you had enough. I guess I'll have to retire pretty soon."

Kanae was born on the island of Molokai. He attended St. Louis prep school and the Kamehameha school, playing football at both. Later he mixed with the Honolulu Athletic club, the Cahu team, the Honolulu town team, the First Hawaiian Infantry eleven, and since 1918, with the Palama settlement team. Tackle is his chosen position.

PHOSPHOR IS TO THE BRAIN WHAT ELECTRIC LIGHT IS TO A CITY.

WITHOUT PHOSPHOR YOU ARE IN THE DARK.

However it must be the right kind of Phosphor, because Phosphor as such is a strong poison. In the right kind of chemical combination it is harmless. Sodium Phosphate for example acts as a Salin Laxative but hardly any of its Phosphor contents is assimilated.

The case is different with

KOFA GLYCEROPHOSPHATES

They are assimilable, they are harmless—that is non-poisonous. An occasional overdose would do no harm.

Phosphor is also important for grown-up people because in any kind of brainwork a small AMOUNT OF PHOSPHOR IS USED UP. THIS IS SCIENTIFICALLY ESTABLISHED FACT.

Unless this is replaced, the final result may be a nervous breakdown.

Most foods contain a small amount of organic Phosphor but a more scientific and systematic way of replacing the Phosphor used up in the daily fights against cook and coolie, amah and office boy, society obligations and late nights is by use of

ASSAULT CHARGE AGAINST GUNTHER IN U. S. COURT

Assert American Struck Chinese Newspaperman In Chincse Post Office

Charges of assault were heard against Mr. Carl Gunther in the United States Court for China before Judge Charles S. Lobingier yesterday and after the testimony of several witnesses had been taken continued until next Thursday.

Mr. Cunther is charged with having assaulted Mr. Walter Chen, a Chinese newspaperman at the Chinese Post Office on Szechuen Road on December 11 while Mr. Chen was posting a letter.

Major C. P. Holcomb conducted the prosecution, and Mr. C. S. Franklin appeared for the accused.

The complainant testifying said that he is a journalist, and is married.

Major Holcomb: How long have you resided in Shanghai? For six years.

Whom are you employed by? "North China Daily News."

Do you know the accused? Yes.

How long have you known him? Since the morning of December 11, 1922. I met him in the Chinese Post Office.

Major Holcomb asked the witness to tell how the fight began.

On the 7th or 8th of December I came out of hospital, and on December 11th I was on my way to the Post Office to post a letter. When I was in there the defendant came in and pushed me saying, 'Get out of the way, Chinese pig!'

I told him that I was a Chinese and that there was no preference there for foreigners. Then he used abusive language and I told him that he was referring to himself.

He said 'Are not not frightened if I knock you down?' I replied 'No.'

By that time I had posted my letter and received a receipt. I walked to the door and as soon as I stepped out I knew that he had his arm round my collar. Then he tried to hit me, but missed and hit my friend by the name of Mr. Young. Further on he broke my spectacles. Meanwhile Mr. Young took off his coat and hat, and the fight proceeded until a Sikh policeman appeared and took hold of my friend and me while the accused was free. Then we were invited to the Police Station, but I refused to go without the accused.

While on our way to the Station the Sikh pulled us through the streets, and Mr. Gunther walked on the other side of the road. At the Police Station Mr. Young and myself were put behind the bars, while Mr .Gunther walked round. It was suggested by the Sergeant in the charge room at that time that I should bring a cross summons.

Major Holcomb: Who else was in the Post Office when the fight took place? There were few Chinese and others. Mr. Young was waiting for me outside.

Mr. Franklin, in his cross-examination, asked Mr. Chen if there was any reason for Mr. Gunther to push him. It was answered that Mr. Gunther had no reason to do that as there was a lot of space.

Asked if he knew why Mr. Gunther went to Post Office Chen replied that he did not.

Judge: Did you know him before? No, never.

Mr. Franklin asked several other questions. The accused had his fingers on Chen's neck, and that he put his arm round him and tried to hit the witness. The first blow struck Mr. Young. He covered his spectacles and tried to get loose. The accused broke the spectacles first, and then they fell down. There were no injuries done to the face.

Asked if he remembered if Mr. Gunther had any letter or any newspaper in his hand, the witness answered that he could not recollect.

Mr. Young, proof-reader of "Shanghai Times," was called next and corroborated the evidence of his friend.

A Chinese Post Office man was then called who stated that he saw Mr. Gunther coming in after Chen. Mr. Chen had his arms on the counter and when Mr. Gunther came in he pushed Mr. Chen's down. He heard Mr. Gunther swear. After that Mr. Gunther went up to Mr. Chen and hit the blow just as Mr. Chen was leaving the door of the Post Office.

Cross-examined by Mr. Franklin, witness said that the first blow missed him and hit Mr. Young. The two were speaking English, when near the counter. He understood a little of the swearing. He did not know what happened outside the door.

Major Holcomb stated that his third witness, a Chinese Post Office master, is unwell and he asked for an adjournment, which was granted.

CAPT. BLACKMORE FOUND DEAD IN BED YESTERDAY

Asiatic Petroleum Company Master Dies Of Heart Disease

Captain G. E. M. Blackmore of the motor ship Asiatica, of the Asiatic Petroleum Company, was found dead in his bed at the Merchant Service Club yesterday morning of heart disease. He is survived by a wife and two children in England.

He was formerly a naval Lieutenant and came here in May. For some time he was second officer on the Anglo-Saxon steamer "Turbo." The vessel in which he was in command arrived here recently from up-river, and is now lying at the New Engineering Dock, undergoing overhaul.

The deceased wrote a note to his Company Wednesday stating that he was suffering from a slight cold. Yesterday about 5:30 a.m. he rang the bell in his room and the boy went upstairs to light the stove. At 8 o'clock one of the club boys visited him and found him lying across the bed dead.

Hongkew Police Station was notified, Det. Sergt. Balchin arrived and called Dr. Gauntlett who certified that the deceased had died from heart disease.

Favors Cuts In Military Expenses

(China Press Service)

Lille, France, Jan. 23.—Drastic economies in French finances are prescribed by Louis Loucheur, former Minister of the Liberated Regions, in an article entitled "To Save France From Deficit," printed in the Reveil du Nord. M. Loucheur urges elimination of the present 5,000,000,000 francs deficit in the ordinary budget through savings in the military and naval expenses, reduction of the interest on the national defense bonds, of which 60,000,000,000 francs are outstanding, and better tax collecting.

The writer's chief recommendation is "the creation of small but powerful organisations as in England and America, to hunt down useless expenses." He directs attention to the fact that more than half the requirements of the ordinary budget is for interest charges.

M. Loucheur advocates reorganization of the Ministry of Finance and suggests it may be advisable to collect the customs in gold.

Stop Lotteries In Chinese Territory

An order has been issued by the Chinese Police authorities, prohibiting the sale of lottery tickets issued by the National (Kuo Min) Bank, of which Mr. Hsu Shih-ying, at present Civil Governor of Anhwei, is Director.

The order severely denounces Mr. Hsu Shih-ying for the issue of the lottery—which is detrimental to commercial interests and is prohibited by the government—especially as Hsu is himself a high official.

It is also alleged that a portion of the light weight copper coins and 20-cent pieces bearing the stamp of the Cantonese mint, now in circulation in the local market, were counterfeits minted at Anhwei and smuggled into Shanghai.

NOTICE

DOGS

Many cases of hydrophobia have been notified in the French Concession, special instructions have been given to the Police to organize battues in which all ownerless dogs found in the streets of the Concession will be, if it is possible, taken and put in pound, or, if not, killed on the spot.

Residents in the French Concession, who will certainly appreciate the imperative necessity of this measure, are asked to take care that their dogs are not allowed out without muzzles.

They will also render a great service to the community if they will notify the Police or Sanitary Department of all cases of the death of suspected dogs occurring at their houses or in the neighbourhood.

Weather Report

Jan. 24.—High pressures increasing over China. The depression is passing ENE ward, North of the Bonin. The Guam typhoon is nearing the 18th parallel NE ward. Regular monsoon along the China coast. Overcast and cold weather in China. Snow in our Valley. Rainy in Chekiang. A new typhoon center is passing to the South of Yap Westward.
Jan. 25.—The weather overcast, with some snow, during the night, clears up after sunrise: low temperature. High and steady pressure. NWly breezes.

Freight Market

In their fortnightly report on the freight market, Messrs. Wheelock and Company write as follows:
There is no change to report in the state of export trade to Europe and America, the market continues dull and uninteresting and prospects for the future are not at all promising.
TO U. S, VIA CANALS
A new tariff has been issued showing slight increases in certain commodities which will come into effect on and after April 1, 1923.
COASTWISE
We have no change to report since last writing and our Northern market continues very quiet. The political situation in Canton has interfered to a extent with the Saigon-Canton rice trade, exports from Pukow to Canton have fallen off for the same reason and we can see no chance of any improvement until after China New Year.

Coal Market

In their fortnightly report on the coal market, Messrs. Wheelock and Company write as follows:
JAPAN COAL
This market is quiet as is only to be expected at this time of the year, although of course there is always a certain amount of small "hand-to-mouth" business going on all the year round with native dealers for immediate consumption. Deliveries under contract are proceeding as usual and coal is coming in freely.
FUCHUNG ANTHRACITE
Market is quiet, stocks are short, prices are firm.

Wu And Tsao Kun At Loggerheads

(China Press Service)

Peking, Jan. 24.—A report from Nanchang, capital of Kiangsi, states that General Sun Chuan-fang, one of General Wu Pei-fu's henchmen, who was recently appointed Commander-in-chief of the "Fukien Relief Expedition," but halted his troops in Kiangsi, has issued a circular telegram, enumerating the "crimes" of General Tsai Cheng-hsun, Tupan of the Rehabilitation of Kiangsi.
General Sun is further reported to have issued the order of mobilisation and to be moving his troops towards Nanchang. Already fighting has begun at Wuyangtu. Tupan Tsai has declared martial law at Nanchang.
General Sun's military movements are generally believed to be a part of General Wu Pei-fu's program to dominate Kiangsi, which now comes under General Tsao Kun's "sphere of influence."

Soviet To Have Big Aero Fleet, Report

(China Press Service)

Washington, Jan. 22.—Official Washington is disturbed by well confirmed reports that the Soviet Government of Russia is building up a formidable air service with German assistance. Despite the prohibitions of the Versailles Treaty, German interests have established well equipped airplane factories in Czecho-Slovakia, according to reports, and are manufacturing for the Soviet Government.
The planes, being turned out by the hundreds, are Junker machines, including fast combat planes and bombers.
According to reports reaching Washington, these machines are being massed mainly on the Siberian front. The disturbing feature about the reports, according to official view, is that the planes are not only being manufactured by Germans but are being manned by them.

Exchange Market

In their weekly report on the Exchange market, Messrs. Maitland, Fearon and Brand write as follows:

Exchange:—During the week the London price of silver has fluctuated between 31⅞d. and 32⅛d. for spot and 30⅞d. and 31⅛d. for forward delivery, the last quotations received 32⅜d., and 31⅛d. are ⅛d. lower for cash, and ⅛d. higher for forward than on this day last week. The Indian Bazaars have supported the market against sales by China. The demand for gold remittances on account of imports, interest on gold loans, etc., exceeds the genuine cover offering, and our market appears for the present to be maintained by speculative sales of Gold T.T. for forward delivery, of which very large amounts have been on the market recently. Our official rate for T.T. on London at 3s. 0½d. is ½d. lower than last week, our exchange market closes with 3s. 1½d. offering for T.T. on London for January, 3s. 1¼d. February, and 3s. 1d. to June, steady.

Our stocks of silver are reported as follows:

Sycee and Bar Silver Tls. 21,210,000, a decrease of Tls. 453,000.

Chinese and Mexican Dollars $34,220,000, a decrease of $950,000.

You Will Do a Better Day's Work!

—and you will feel fitter and fresher all day—if you begin the day with Sanatogen.

In these days of keen competition, the man who "wins through" is the man who does a better day's work than his competitors.

When you come to analyse it, the quantity and quality of the work you do depends, to a large extent, on the amount of nerve-energy you possess. It is nerve-energy that enables you to make the most of your brains, and supplies the "driving power" essential to success.

Now, Sanatogen definitely increases nerve-energy—does not merely stimulate or excite, but increases it to a remarkable degree. The result is that when you take Sanatogen you do more and better work than you have been accustomed to do. Nor is this a temporary effect; it continues day by day, week by week.

Dr. Claude L. Wheeler says—

"The user of Sanatogen is richly rewarded in freedom from langour, a gain of strength and activity, alertness of mind, and an increased resisting-power to diseases"

Begin by Taking Sanatogen Regularly Every Morning with or After Breakfast

This will enable you to acquire that extra nerve-energy which spells success in every business and profession; which gives you a zest and a delight in your work; which makes you keen and concentrated, alert and self confident, and thus gives you the power to realise your ambitions.

Take the first step today, not tomorrow—now not presently. Sanatogen can be obtained of all Chemists and Dispensaries.

The Enemy In Peace Time

EIGHTY-FIVE percent of the misery caused by ill-health in the Orient is preventible, according to Sir Claude Hill, Director General of Red Cross Societies. This estimate is based upon information accruing from the meeting of 35 Red Cross societies at Bangkok at which Sir Claude was the presiding officer. From Bangkok most of the delegates moved on to India and on arrival at Calcutta Sir Claude summed up the results of the conference for The Statesman as follows. We direct special attention to his tribute to the work of Dr. W. W. Peter in China. Dr. Peter has promised, on his return, to give readers of THE CHINA PRESS a full report of the several conferences, together with his own observation. We quote:

"The Federation of National Red Cross Societies, of which the Indian Red Cross Society is one, and was represented with thirty-four other national societies, at the discussion at the general council meeting, decided last March upon a universal program of peace-time work. The program was to be entirely educational. Eighty-five percent of the misery, inefficiency and suffering caused by ill-health is preventible by ordinarily intelligent living and the urgent need of the time is, therefore, to furnish people with the knowledge necessary to avoid these ills. The methods upon which the general council of the Federation decided that the campaign should be inaugurated were (1) direct popular health instruction, (2) public health nursing visitors and (3) the junior Red Cross movement.

"This program has been submitted to the distinguished doctors who act as the medical advisory board of the Red Cross Federation. They endorsed it enthusiastically and pronounced it not only practical but precisely what governmental health departments in all countries need in order to secure the co-operation of the public in making efficacious the health measures devised for, their benefit, such as factory laws, etc. It was felt, however, by the general council, in order to secure that the program as accepted should be properly understood and adapted to the varying needs of the different regions of the world, that the League secretariat should, if possible, establish personal contact with the more distantly situated national societies. With this end in view it was determined that an Oriental conference of Red Cross societies should be convened and that the Director-General and another member of the headquarters staff should attend it, in order that the program and methods recommended might be discussed fully in the light of Oriental conditions. That conference has just been held at Bangkok with, to us, most gratifying results. Japan, China, Siam, and the Philippines were each represented by three workers eminent either in the official, medical or philanthropic world. Dr. W. W. Peter, the pioneer public health educator in the Orient, was persuaded to accompany the headquarters delegation not only to Bangkok but afterwards to India and is with us now. The French Red Cross was strongly represented by Dr. le Roi des Barres, well-known for his work in Indo-China. The East Indies section of the Netherlands Red Cross deputed Dr. van Romer and the Indian, British and Australia Red Cross societies each had a representative. Captain R. M. Bhandari was the Indian delegate. In addition, the Rockefeller Foundation permitted Dr. Barnes to attend, and Major Norman White was present on behalf of the League of Nations, which had referred the question of opium to the conference.

"The scheme adopted last March in Geneva was cordially endorsed by the Bangkok conference. It went further and determined that that the societies represented would be wise to enter upon the work at once, taking up one or more of the activities—district popular health instruction, public health nursing or junior Red Cross work forthwith. Direct popular health instruction was to include, wherever necessary, a campaign against the abuse of opium and other noxious, habit-forming drugs.

"The Federation delegation has visited Japan and China on its way to Bangkok, and will now spend four weeks in India in the hope of having opportunities of explaining, and arousing enthusiasm for, the program of work among the provincial Red Cross societies. We propose, after leaving Calcutta, to visit Lahore, Gwalior, Delhi, Madras, Hyderabad and Bombay, according to a program worked out for us by the Indian Red Cross.

"It may be remembered that I introduced the Indian Red Cross Bill in the Imperial Legislative Council in March, 1920, and that I took a deep interest in the administration of the Red Cross after the death of Sir Pardey Lukis. My interest in India and the Red Cross is still unabated. I was able to persuade the governors of the Federation to permit me to spend these few weeks in India after the Bangkok conference, and I think it may be worth mentioning that the grant of that permission was an altruistic action on their part, inasmuch as the cost of the visit will be debited to the thirteen national societies who contribute to the funds of the League. Thus, not only will the visit cost India nothing but it is, in a sense, a contribution by other national societies towards an organised campaign against avoidable misery and suffering in this country.

"As regards the steps which we hope to persuade the Indian Red Cross and its branches to take, in pursuance of the adopted program, I hope we shall be given other opportunities for explaining. Mr. Lymen Bryson, who has been director of the junior Red Cross division of the Federation secretariat, will be able to give full particulars of that movement, which is now in full swing in at least twenty-five countries, and Dr. Peters' experience of direct popular health instruction in China will, I am confident, prove of extraordinary value and suggestiveness to all workers in the field of public health, whether governmental or voluntary.

"I would like, however, to take this, the earliest opportunity, to make clear one point about which everywhere we have found much apprehensiveness in the first instance.

"Fear has sometimes been expressed by voluntary associations engaged in relief or social work that the incursion of the Red Cross into peace activities might lead to overlapping and competitive effort. The exact opposite is the case. The program involves no direct substantive relief work. It aims at aiding all such benevolent effort by instructing the people how and why to take advantage of and to profit by, it. Just as, in the opinion of the chief medical officer of the Ministry of Health in England, this program of work is an essential adjunct of all governmental activities in the field of public health, so it is believed it will become equally valuable to, and appreciated by, child welfare societies, anti-tuberculosis leagues and the host of other benevolent associations. And this is not merely a hope. It is a matter of actual experience. In three countries now the National Red Cross Society has succeeded in forming something in the nature of a national health council upon which are represented the more important health agencies, official and non-official, of the country. Such a council creates a co-ordination of effort and exchange of information, and secures avoidance of overlapping and mutual help.

"The Bangkok conference resolved that, in order to be effective, a Red Cross society must, in so far as possible, be independent of Government control or direction, must have a wide popular membership and offer a catholic appeal by reason of its organisation and constitution. The framework of the Indian Red Cross Act was designed to secure this. In India the purposes of the peace-time program will constitute an effective appeal, since the spirit of individual charity and kindliness is nowhere else more developed. The warm welcome which was accorded by the Indian Legislature to the creation of the Society two and a half years ago is, I am certain, the augury of enthusiastic support for this concrete program of beneficent work.

"But this appeal is not merely charitable. A healthy nation is a strong and prosperous nation, and vice versa. We want to teach India to be healthy and therefore strong. I have been told that India is too poor—that we should relieve her poverty first. But we maintain that India is poor, in part at least, because she is not healthy, and that by teaching her health we shall also add to her production of wealth."

-:- China In 1922 -:-

HAICHOW, N. KIANGSU

More progress has been made along all lines in this section during the previous twelve years that your correspondent has been a resident of the Haichow District.

Up until the outbreak of the political disturbances at Tsingtau in November, there had been a steadily increasing trade between that city and our river port, Sinpu. Three small Chinese steamers and one Japanese have been making bi-weekly trips with good cargoes each way. The Shantung Overseas Trading Company has recently established an agency in Sinpu. This is a Chinese organisation with some foreign capital invested in it and with foreign backing. They have purchased a steamer of much larger capacity than any of the present steamers now on this run which is to be put into service in the early Spring.

Sinpu has grown rapidly and developed greatly commercially during the past two years. Several new enterprising lumber companies, exporting and importing agencies, have been established. An electric lighting plant is now under construction. This is to be of sufficient capacity to supply the city of Haichow also with lights for public and private use.

A valuable phosphate mine has been in operation for the past two years. This is the property of one of the most progressive families of the city. The capital invested is Chinese, but the development of the mine has been under Japanese supervision. The product is kiln dried here, then shipped to Japan via Tsingtau. The output is perhaps twenty thousand tons per year. The quality compares very favorably with the celebrated phosphate deposits of the South Sea Islands. Iron is also being mined on a small scale near the phosphate beds, but it is neither of the quality nor the quantity to ever be of much commercial value.

SURVEY COMPLETED

The engineer of the Lung-Hai Railroad, Mr. A. van Lustenburg Maas, has just completed the final survey of the road from Suchowfu to Sinpu. The road has already been built as far as the Grand Canal. The work of construction will begin from that point eastward early in the New Year. As soon as the materials for bridge and road construction can be transported to Haichow, the construction will also be pushed from this end westward.

Mr. Maas and his staff of Chinese engineers had some rather amusing experiences while making the survey. One especially difficult section of ten kilometers had just been completed one night at dusk. The next morning all of the stakes which had been so carefully driven the day before were missing. A fuel gatherer seeing the bountiful supply of splendid fire wood coming up out of the ground, had collected the stakes with which to cook his rice.

Just this side of the Ih River is a notorius robber infested district. When the surveying party reached the river they heard such hair raising stories of the robbers that the Chinese staff decided to give up railroad surveying as a dangerous occupation and return to Suchowfu. Early the next morning, however, a messenger came into camp from the robbers bidding them to go forward with their work, promising not only not to harm them but actually to protect them. At the first village they entered after crossing the river, the robber chief and his band came out in gala attire with flags and banners flying and gave them a hearty welcome. Mr. Maas although he cannot speak a word of Chinese, has a pleasant Dutch smile which would be interpreted as friendly in seventeen different languages, so he and the robber chief were soon on the best of terms. Mr. Maas says that they are the most courteous robbers he has ever met.

POLITICAL CONDITIONS

Ours is an ultra conservative community and aside from a few progressive individuals, but little interest has ever been taken in politics. We have representatives in Parliament and the Provincial Assembly. These were chosen not on the merit system but strictly on cash basis, the man with the most generous hand winning.

The local political situation is dominated by our military general General Pei Pao-shan. As he is just, fair and square in his dealings, this has proven a great blessing to this section at large. The General has recently reorganised his divisions and now has a set of well behaved, well disciplined troops. The country is more peaceful than it has been in years Brigandage has just about been stamped out.

General Pei is not only efficient as a military commander, he is also a progressive spirit. He has recently installed a Delco Electric Lighting system in his yamen and is now planning an extensive telephone system in his district He has established a motor car service between Haichow and Sinpu and plans to extend this service to other nearby cities. He has built and kept in repair several public roads which is quite an unusual undertaking for the average Chinese official.

RELIGIOUS PROGRESS

There has been year by year a generally increasing interest in and inquiry into Christianity. We have passed through the stage of those who were inquiring into the Gospel for temporal gain and benefit and of those who were merely curious. We are now beginning to receive those, who are, so far as we can tell, without ulterior motives but are truly and earnestly groping after God if haply they may find Him.

Last May a series of meetings were held in the city conducted by Rev. J. D. Cunningham and a band of Chinese evangelists from Nanking. The greatest interest was manifested. One hundred and forty men and thirty women, mostly from well to do and influential families, enrolled themselves as inquires. The greater part have continued their interest to the present time.

Do You Make The Same Mistake Repeatedly?

BY J. J. MUNDY

Are you one of those persons who is always getting into trouble, asking to be forgiven, and then is very soon found at the same old tricks?

You are quite hurt because some persons to whom you have apologised do not accept your apology gracefully?

You wonder why.

You decide that it is not worth while to humble yourself so much.

If your sincerity is apparently doubted, what is the use of saying that you are sorry?

And so you are aggrieved at something which is your own fault, perhaps.

Instead of being so quick to say you are sorry, why do you not give a little more thought to your decision to do better?

It is facts which count, not promises.

Your friends know this, whether you recognise its truth or not.

What is the use of excusing a person who is so heedless that the unpleasant feature will be repeated?

Get the reputation of being reliable.

Have some depth to your thought and to your work.

Gain a reputation for not repeating offenses.

The Science, Poetry And Theology Of Rainbows

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS
(Eminent Astronomer and Authority on Subjects of Scientific Interest)

"A constant reader of your articles, I would like to ask you several questions concerning the rainbow:

"1. What is the rainbow?

"2. For how long does it exist already?

"3. Why do we have it always after a rain?

"4. Why does it always appear in daytime?

"5. Could it appear at night, and would we be able to see it?

"6. What colors could the rainbow assume?—S. Lentz, New York."

(1) The rainbow is a phenomenon (appearance) in the atmosphere, having the shape of a bow or an arc of a circle, generally less than a semi-circumference in extent, with the convexity upward, though when seen from an elevation it may be nearly a complete circle, and often does appear as a complete circle if projected against the mist of a waterfall.

(2) The rainbow must have existed as long as alternate rain and sunshine have occurred upon the earth. Traditions of the sudden creation of the rainbow as a "token" or "promise" made by the Almighty to the earth's inhabitants insuring them against the occurrence of a second deluge, are to be regarded as an expression of the poetic spirit so often strongly manifested by theology in early times and among primitive peoples. It is regrettable that the literal interpretation of such a legend should ever be accepted as a test of religious faith. It is on such rocks that theology risks shipwreck, to the enormous detriment of the cause of religion.

(3) A rainbow is seen only after a shower of rain simply because the appearance of the colored bow is due to a combined effect of refraction and reflection of light, occurring in the falling raindrops, as the shower retreats from the observer, with the sunshine falling upon it. The bow cannot be formed in the midst of a rainstorm or shower, because then no direct sunshine reaches it. One the other hand, it cannot be formed when there are no rain drops or mist drops in the air for the sunshine to illuminate.

(4) What has just been said virtually answers the question also. The rainbow appears in the daytime because only when the sun is above the horizon is the light that is needed available for the refractive and reflective action of the raindrops.

(5) However, although rainbows generally are visible only in the daytime, yet they may occasionally be seen at night, formed naturally by the light of a bright moon, or factitiously by artificial illumination. Moonlight is simply sunlight, though much reduced in intensity by reflection from the lunar surface, and when refracted and dispersed by drops of rain or mist it sometimes forms bows exhibiting the principal color characteristic of the true, or daylight, rainbow. Lunar rainbows of surprising brilliance are sometimes seen. Lunar haloes, due to the action upon the moonlight of refractive particles high in the atmosphere, also present rainbow hues.

(6) The colors of a rainbow are basally the same as those seen when a ray of sunlight is transmitted through a glass prism and allowed to fall upon a white wall, or screen. These are the so-called prismatic colors, or "primary" colors, whose combination forms white light. However, the colors in the bow are often comparatively faint and some are generally missing. Red is always more or less conspicuous on the outer edge of the bow, followed by orange and violet, the latter being on the inner side. But when, as sometimes occurs, a "secondary" bow is formed a considerable distance outside the primary one, the colors are reversed in their relative positions.

There is no mystery whatever about the formation of the rainbow. It is just as invitable a result of the refraction of light and the dispersion of the elementary colors as is the brilliant spectral display made by a chandelier of glass prisms, or a cut-glass bottle. But there are certain conditions which must exist in order that a rainbow should appear.

In the first place, as we have seen, there must be a retreating shower of rain before the observer's eyes, and in the second place, the sun must be behind the observer so that its light, after being refracted inside the drops, may be reflected toward him. The reflection occurs on the inner surface of the back of the drops, which acts like a mirror. The refractive action of the water causes the dispersion of the colors, the red being the least and the violet the most refracted, or turned from its original course.

An interesting fact, the truth of which any observer may test for himself, is that the center of the circle of which the rainbow is an arc, lies in a straight line with the sun and the observer's head.

It works for you but feeds itself

Teaching China To Fly

BY CECIL A. LEWIS
(In John O' London's Weekly)

Though there is no doubt that flying in China has come to stay, yet its progress, like everything else in China, will certainly be slow. The art of aviation is essentially a growth of Western civilisation, where speed in communication becomes more and more a function of our daily life. Out of this necessity, to which was added the terrific stimulus of the Great War, came the growth of a new science—the science of flight. This science must be almost unparalleled in history for the speed at which it has developed and taken its place among the everyday things of life.

In China there has been no such pressing need for advancement. The customs, habits and architecture of the people have remained unchanged for hundreds of years. Only lately the advent of Western civilisation has made the Great Dragon shake himself a little with anger and irritation (as in the Boxer Rebellion), and even still more lately has he begun to show interest and desire to possess the fruits of foreign lands—aeroplanes, telephones, electric light, etc.—things which must seem as strange to him as it is strange to us see a Mandarin taking his favorite thrush for a walk on the river-side, and turning the circular cage on the points of his fingers in order that the bird may sing more tunefully among his beautiful surroundings.

ANTIQUATED MACHINES

The whole difference in our civilisations might be summed up from such an incident. Here a successful man is more and more chained to the machine he has created. In China it is a sign of wealth to have leisure. The intelligentsia spend their time in quiet meditation and detachment from the stream of life. What can be more conductive to this than to spend the morning squatting beneath the willows on the bank of some pellucid canal, listening to the full throated song of one's favorite tame thrush, smoking one's pade-mounted pipe—and spitting thoughtfully over one's shoulder from time to time?

The first serious attempt in China to take up aviation was made by the Aeronautical Department in Peking before the war when a French mission came out with a few Caudrons and started a school at the aerodrome of Nan Yuan, some six miles south of the city. A few Chinese were trained to fly these machines, but the war came on. and the French instructors and mechanics returned to France.

Nothing daunted, the Chinese continued to fly. Many machines were smashed, but they were repaired. Tyres, shock absorbers, dope for the planes could no longer be obtained, but the pupils showed themselves amazingly ingenious in substituting for these things of their own manufacture They continued to fly, this band of heroes—for really they can be called no less—on machines which no European pilot would have looked at, and they were still flying in 1921 on these same pre war machines. In all this time there was never a single fatal accident—a tribute to men and machines alike. I remember how a Chinese instructor almost made me collapse with nerves by taking up a 25 h.p. machine and doing figure eights about 100 feet from the ground, with the engine missing fire and and the wings shaking as if they might come off at any moment.

FEARLESSNESS, RESOURCE

Clearly, then, fearlessness and resource are two of the attributes of the Chinese pilot. He is also unfailingly polite, and of an imperturbable god humor. Against these good points must be balanced a slowness to respond to sensations, a curious lack of the sense of direction and equilibrium. and, lastly, the fatalistic outlook that all will be for the best in this best of all possible worlds. By which I mean that if a pilot made a bad landing—well, he might have broken his undercarriage, so it was not so bad after all. If he broke his undercarriage—well, he might have broken his neck. And if he broke his neck, then his friends would console themselves, saying, "Well, one of us might have been with him."

This philosophy, commendable as it is in many ways, does not make for efficiency, and when it is applied by pilots, mechanics, and administration to their several departments it is apt to retard progress.

In the spring and summer flying instruction would take place in the early morning, shortly after dawn. In the spring the high winds and dust storms, which are literally as opaque as a London fog, make flying most unpleasant later in the day, and in the summer months the heat is too intense to fly in comfort after 10 a.m.

The machines are ready, waiting to go up into the air, when the instructor arrives, and, as his car draws up at the sheds, a group of some half-dozen pupils in various weird helmets and goggles greet one. All smiling and apparently delighted at the arrival of their instructor, they all shake him heartily by the hand, and say, "I hope you are very well" or "Vous allez bien?" according to the foreign language they have studied at college. The interpreter comes up with his notebook and pencil, and the instructor explains to him some defect in the flying of one of his pupils on the previous day, or, maybe, some new movement he wishes to teach them.

All is translated by the interpreter and the pupils listen with deep attention. At the end of the explanation one of them says something, and the instructor, thinking that there is some difficulty, inquires of the interpreter what has been said. "He wishes to say that the pupils are deeply grateful for your instruction" The instructor, not to be outdone, replies that it gives him great pleasure if he can be of any use to his friends.

After these mutual expressions of admiration the pupils would be taken up one after the other, all explanations taking place before and after the flight—it is difficult to talk in an aeroplane, pidgin-Chinese in one.

Progress with the old Caudron pupils was slow, they found difficulty in accustoming themselves to new machines; but the younger generation of pilots made great strides. Many learned almost as quickly as English pupils, and others, though slow to respond, showed signs later on of a capacity which one had despaired of at first. A very few were seized with panic or sickness, but not more than the percentage it is usual to find among would-be pilots.

There are vast distances beyond the reach of the railways; communications that could be done in hours by air take days by land or water. Added to this there is a climate which can be depended upon to work to schedule, rain when it is supposed to, and be hot and cold almost to fixed dates on the calendar. These are certainly an asset to the cause of aviation, but, when all has been said and done, flying remains a foster-child to China. She did not demand it; her needs, at present, do not dictate it, and until such time as she can appreciate its power and its use applied to her own country, she will not seriously adopt it.

Marvelous Relics Found In Tomb Of Egypt's King

(China Press Service)

London, Jan. 2.—Lord Carnarvon and his assistant, Mr. Howard Carter, have achieved the archaeological sensation of the century. Sixteen years' work among the tombs of Ancient Egypt has been rewarded by the discovery of the secret hiding place of the funeral treasures of the Pharaoh Tut-Ankh-Amen, who lived 3,000 years ago. They are valued at £3,000,000.

For over sixteen years, Lord Carnarvon has been excavating in Egypt, bringing to light evidence of one of the most astonishing civilisations the world has ever known. Now in the Valley of the Kings near Luxor, which was said to have given up the last of its dead, he has made the discovery of a lifetime.

It takes no gift of imagination to feel something of the awe which must have hushed the small band of excavators as the stones were rolled away from the mouth of the secret chambers in that wild valley of desolate rocks and sand, leaving them free to see what no human eye has looked on for thirty centuries. They entered and found themselves in three chambers cut from the rock. The light of their torches fell on gilded beds, state thrones, ivory sceptres, a chariot with a leopard skin flung over it, and a thousand and one beautiful things put in the tomb to keep the soul of the dead king company in his journey through the shades. In the darkness stood two lifesize statues of the Pharaoh holding gilded wands.

They found trussed wild duck and haunches of venison cooked 3,000 years ago, and packed in boxes so that when the Ka, or double, of the Pharaoh was hungry it might come and rest in a model palace and eat.

STRONG ROOM

These and suchlike funeral treasures were found by the excavators lying just as they had been hidden. In a second chamber they found wonderful paintings giving a record of the king's reign, and in a third chamber they found painted boxes packed so tightly to the roof that it was impossible to enter.

What will be found in this third chamber?

That is the question which archaeologists are asking all over the world. It has been stated that the mummy of the king may lie there. But it is not likely. It seems clear that these chambers are a cache in which the funeral emblems were hidden some time after the burial to save them from tomb robbers. Far more wonderful than the discovery of the mummy would be the discovery of papyrus manuscripts. In addition to the conventional writings from the Book of the Dead, there are almost certain to be writings of an historical character.

Speculation about them is thrilling. They date from one of the most interesting and puzzling periods of Egypt's long history. When Tut-Ankh-Amen died 3,000 years ago the Hebrews were in Egypt, although the Exodus was probably one hundred years later.

We may find an Egyptian account of Biblical events.

More wonderful even than this would be additional knowledge of the most surprising king in early history, Akhenaten, whom the Pharaoh Tut-Ankh-Amen succeeded, and whose daughter he married.

Was this king a political schemer or was he the world's first idealist? For over 3,000 years before he came to the throne the kings of Egypt had worshipped hundreds of strange and terrible animal-headed gods and goddesses. For 3,000 years no man had questioned their divinity. When Akhenaten was made Pharaoh—and he was a young boy, not twenty—he made war on the gods of Egypt, and said that there was only one God. He ordered Egypt to worship the sun, he ordered that the name of Amen, the old King of Gods, should be removed from every monument, and even from the tombs and coffins of the kings, including those of his father.

WROTE HYMNS

He wrote many beautiful hymns to the sun, among which there is the undoubted original of our 104th Psalm, he founded a new school of art, and he left the royal city of Thebes and built himself a new capital at Tel-el-Amarna, where his ideals were followed. This was the world's first attempt at Utopia.

Here in this city he lived the life of a poetic dreamer, teaching his people the gospel of the One God. He did not believe in war, and when revolts broke out he refused to fight. He lived quietly in his Utopia with his wife and daughters, rowing on a lake in a golden barge and singing hymns to the sun.

Little was known of him till a number of tablets were found on the site of his ruined Utopia city quite recently. His dream city lasted just twelve years, and the man who abandoned it was his successor, Tut-Ankh-Amen, who restored the old State religion and forsook the One and Only God.

Is it too much to hope that in this dark tomb will be found Tut-Ankh-Amen's account of the earliest Utopia, the first idealist, the first man who seemed to grope for truth? Perhaps we shall be told, as some German savants have insisted, that Akhenaten was not the beautiful dreamer he has been painted, but a political priest-hater.

Surely nothing is more marvellous in a world sated by mock sensation than that while thirty centuries marched by overhead, while empires rose up and fell into silence, a little tomb in the desert was waiting to tell us of the old dreams, that sound so young, which 3,000 years ago took fire in the heart of man.

A lighted lamp is the most conspicuous object in a room and should be a thing of beauty in complete harmony with its surroundings.
